Inspired by the seduction rituals of the Surma tribe in Ethiopia, fingers are used to perform the scrub and a traditional African Comb is used to spread the Body Mud. Your therapist uses the African Comb to create patterns and spread the mud which enhances the sensory experience of touch, and performs a head massage whilst your mud is being absorbed. After a therapeutic warm shower or warm compress wipe-down enjoy a Relaxing Massage using our Moroccan Cypress Oil. A menthol and peppermint cooling gel is applied at the end of this treatment to stimulate blood flow and create a cooling sensation.

Spa Etiquette

Mangwanani Dream Spa would like all guests to have the most tranquil and indulgent experience possible when visiting any of our spas, nationwide. With this aim in mind, we have produced a general set of etiquette guidelines for you to keep in mind before your decadent experience with us.

- Arrive 15-20 minutes prior to treatments to complete an indemnity card

- Please only smoke in designated areas, smoking in non-designated areas is illegal and prohibited
- If necessary, please moderate your alcohol intake as excessive consumption can lead to unruly behaviour. This can impact on your treatments as well as the serene experiences of other guests
- Please refrain from sexually suggestive and/or inappropriate behaviour as it distracts from Mangwanani's philosophy of peace and tranquillity
- Our therapists are trained to make your stay with us as comfortable as possible, should you feel in anyway uncomfortable with our treatments or service please advise an on-site manager immediately
